

Use the following for end punctuation:

- The period (known as a full stop in British English) is probably the simplest of the punctuation marks to use. You use it like a knife to cut the sentences to the required length. (For example: Rome is the capital of Italy.)
- The exclamation mark is used to express exasperation, astonishment, or surprise, or to emphasise a comment or short, sharp phrase. In everyday writing, exclamation marks are used sparingly if at all. (For example: That's unbelievable!)
- Use the question mark at the end of all direct questions. (For example: What is your name?)

Use the correct end punctuation to complete the following sentences:

1. How did you enjoy the trip?
2. Watch out !
3. Eat all your vegetables, please .
4. The Newfoundland dog gazed adoringly at her owner .

5. When did the accident occur?

6. What a beautiful view! or .

7. School started promptly at 8:05 in the morning .

8. The horses galloped along the fields .

9. Where is your grammar homework ?

10. There are always consequences for your actions .